PRESIDENT'S REPORT

By TERI SPIRO - 2022 GMAR President President@gmaronline.com

Celebrate July!

When the warm weather is here to stay for a few months, and the daylight hours are longer, you can't help but look forward to outdoor activities with friends and family. There are a few exciting GMAR events that are upcoming in July that I will be showcasing in this article. You can also go to the GMAR website www.gmaronline. com/calendar to see the entire 2022 schedule.

Summer in the Park: Saturday, July 16th, from 11 AM-6 PM, a "carnival funfair" will feature food, games, crafts, music and SO MUCH FUN for GMAR members and their families. This event is FREE, and a celebration of YOU. Centrally located at Civic Center Park in Madison Heights. Please register at online at https://gmaronline.com/ event/2022-07-16/summer-park.

Celebrating the American Dream/RPAC BBQ: Monday, July 18th, from 6 PM - 9 PM. The theme of the RPAC BBQ is The American Dream. It brings home the message that investing in RPAC supports everyone's ability to have The American Dream of home ownership! Red Wood Grill will supply a traditional American BBQ. A poolside musical performance will thrill American Idol fans (or anyone who is a fan of live music) as American Idol season 12 finalist, Lazaro Arbos, is our featured entertainment. Originally from Cuba, he currently resides in Naples, FL and after American Idol, he toured with Cher. He sings everything from the classics to rock, country, and pop – certainly, something for everyone!

GMAR Global Initiative Launch Party: Wednesday, July 27th, from 3:30 PM -5:30 PM. Come and celebrate with us as we showcase our newest addition to the GMAR family, the Global Initiative. Join the Global Initiative Committee at one of the newest hotspots in Ferndale, the Detroit Fleat, a food truck venue at 1820 E. Nine Mile Rd. to learn more about the GMAR program that facilitates global real estate for our members. The Metropolitan Detroit area is a highly desirable area for many companies, and we are seeing increased interest in relocation from around the world, so this event is a terrific opportunity to network, enjoy fabulous Ferndale, and become acquainted with global real estate.

NAR Legislative Midyear meetings: Many members of GMAR's leadership team, GMAR NAR Committee members, and GMAR staff (EO Vickey Livernois and Government Affairs Directors Grant Meade and Alex Haddad) attended the conference in the DC area in early May. For the first time in 3 years, we were "in person," although live streaming was available. The focus/ priority issues of most speakers and discussions centered around the housing inventory and supply challenges. Our conversations with members of Congress asked for support of the bipartisan Housing Supply and Affordability Act which creates a Local Housing Policy Grant program for local municipalities to enact prohousing policies. Fair Housing was also a focus as we asked for support of The Housing Fairness Act. NAR's Chief Economist, Dr. Lawrence Yun, presented his insightful perspectives on the economic forecast. The message for your clients: Housing is the best hedge against inflation!

GMAR leadership and staff are actively working with our local municipalities to offer ideas and solutions (zoning, re-purposing existing buildings, etc.) to help address the still-present inventory challenge. We are the #1 source for many elected officials to get accurate housing data.

Looking forward to seeing you in person this Summer! It is a privilege serving as your 2022 President.

NAR Increases Assessment for "That's Who We R" Advertising Campaign

At the recent NAR Legislative meetings, a motion was passed to increase the assessment used to fund the "That's Who We R" campaign to $45 per member, per year, beginning in 2023.

Using the REALTOR® Code of Ethics as its foundation, the campaign demonstrates that REALTORS® provide unparalleled service and a higher-level commitment that consumers cannot experience through listing apps and non-member agents. The campaign's television and radio ads, social media placements, content partnerships, and more combine to give REALTORS® brand exposure on a national scale.

The special assessment for the consumer ad campaign has remained flat at $35 per year since its inception in 2009. NAR's Budget Review Team and Finance Committee, meeting in March, recommended an increase to continue to keep the brand top of mind with consumers and to drive home the REALTOR® difference. NAR's Board of Directors approved the $10 per year increase at its May 6 meeting.

The 2022 campaign assets are available for REALTORS[®] to download and use. Select from digital banners, print ads, and social images, along with suggested post copy to include.

Find 2022 campaign assets at: NAR.realtor/ thats-who-we-r/campaign-marketing-assets

Also, REALTORS[®] can find social assets and images on NAR's Photofy app. Photofy allows you to personalize the campaign assets you use along with your photo or logo and contact information. Access the app: Photofy.com/nar

GMAR will continue to communicate over the next few months to our brokers/managers regarding how the $10 increase will impact our Premier and MemberMax[™] members.

LEGISLATIVE UPDATE

By GRANT MEADE GMAR Director of Realtor[®] and Community Affairs

GMAR Will Help Decide Michigan's Constitutional Term Limits

Last month, I wrote about a proposal being floated by a former speaker of the Michigan House and the Mayor of Detroit, looking to reform Michigan's constitutional term limits. Since that article was submitted, the Michigan Legislature approved the proposal to be included on the November Ballot. You will now directly help decide if the current term limits structure is beneficial for Michigan.

Lame Duck: The period prior to an election, but before the start of the next legislative session. The period of office after a successor has been elected.

Term limits can be a trade-off. On one hand, you guarantee when politicians will leave office, ensure that new candidates will be able to run for those seats, and eliminate the possibility of officials staying for decades. On the other hand, legislative members cannot build institutional knowledge, politicians need to position themselves for their next job, and lobbyists and bureaucrats wield larger amounts of power.

I finished my last article with a catchy, albeit confusing term, without explaining it. "Pogo-Politicians," is a term I acquired from some of Michigan's political journalists.

This term refers to a class of politicians that we see increasingly in Michigan. Politicians who legislate are concerned with their job after they term out. That job can be anything from their next elected position, a job at a lobbying firm, or in the private sector. These include entities that the legislature regulates, the departments that they pass policy for, and even the lobbying firms that work to sway them. In my time at the Michigan House, I witnessed termed-out legislators accepting positions within all those entities.

A further issue with term limits is the creation of a "lame duck" term. With Michigan's current term limits, as many as 1/3 of Michigan House members and 1/2 of sitting Michigan Senate Members will not be able to run for re-election. For context, that is 50 out of 145 members that will not have to justify their actions to their constituents. These members can legislate their worst or most controversial policies, while facing no recourse short of a recall petition. While ensuring turnover in our legislative bodies is beneficial, this set timeline has been taken advantage of.

As stated in my last article, the reforms offer 12 years of service for legislative members, split between both chambers. This reduction, from the 14 they can potentially serve now, changes the basic math around terming out. It will severely reduce the number of legislators who are serving a lame duck session and ensures that many will only serve one true lame duck period. I believe this maintains the spirit of the 1992 ballot proposal, while admitting that there were flaws with its language.

Since legislature approved the proposal to be included on the November ballot, it is now up to us, Michigan voters, to decide if the current structure of term limits should remain in place or be changed.

We Couldn't Do It Without You

THANK YOU ORIENTATION SPONSORS FOR THE MONTH OF MAY 2022: CHIRCO TITLE AGENCY, INC.

By CLAUDIA HERNANDEZ

Hello Friends and Colleagues

It is crazy to me that we are already halfway through the year and things have rapidly changed in the last couple of months. It is particularly challenging that some buyers are getting a little spooked about interest rates increasing. The best advice I have received is to continue to stay on top of what is happening, and that it is extremely important to direct them to a reputable lender that can guide them with options.

This month, YPN is hosting a Top Producers Panel at our GMAR classroom in Southfield. We have not held this event in a few years, so we are excited to host this once again. Our panelists are Andrew Hersey, a YPN advisor from NAR, Rachel Reaves from RE/MAX Leading Edge, Erik Wright, Broker at Social House, and Sarah Maiga from Maiga Homes Luxury. When we hand-picked these panelists, we wanted to make sure we focused on production experience as well as innovative and creative ideas they have presented in the past within their own businesses that they can share with other agents. We are also thrilled to have Max Broock REALTORS® and GMAR Board of Directors Member Chelsea Cain leading this panel as our Emcee.

We hope we see you all there and as always, thank you to our very generous sponsors, Chirco Title and Chase, because we would not have been able to put this together without you!

April – National Real Estate Commentary

The average 30-year fixed rate mortgage exceeded 5% in April, the highest level since 2011, according to Freddie Mac. The recent surge in mortgage rates has reduced the pool of eligible buyers and has caused mortgage applications to decline, with a significant impact on refinance applications, which are down more than 70% compared to this time last year. As the rising costs of homeownership force many Americans to adjust their budgets, an increasing number of buyers are hoping to help offset the costs by moving from bigger, more expensive cities to smaller areas that offer a more affordable cost of living.

Affordability challenges are limiting buying activity, and early signs suggest competition for homes may be cooling somewhat. Nationally, existing home sales are down 2.7% as of last measure, while pending sales dropped 1.2%, marking 5 straight months of under contract declines, according to the National Association of REALTORS[®]. Inventory remains low, with only 2-months supply at present, and home prices continue to rise, with the median existing home at $373,500, a 15% increase from this time last year. Homes are still selling quickly, however, and multiple offers are common in many markets.

Realcomp II Ltd. is Michigan's largest Multiple Listing Service, now serving more than 18,000 valued broker, agent, and appraiser REALTOR® customers in over 2,700 offices across Michigan. Realcomp is committed to providing the most reliable up-to-date real estate information using state-of-the-art delivery methods.

What Not to Do After You're Approved for a Mortgage

By: Tony Dankha

Imagine this – you get approved for a mortgage for the house of your dreams, and you can't wait to furnish it! You start imagining that big oak table in the dining room and the super comfy couch right in front of the 70-inch TV. Before you know it, you're on various websites looking at all the furniture you'll buy on that zero percent APR credit card they're offering you. Sounds great, right? Not so fast!

When you get pre-approved for a mortgage, your loan officer evaluates your income, credit, debts, and assets in order to figure out what exactly you are qualified for. Getting that pre-approval can be an exciting milestone in your homebuying journey, but that journey can get treacherous if you are not careful.

Here are some of the things you should be aware of:

New Credit Cards

Any negative changes to your credit score can have adverse impacts on your pre-approval evaluation. A hard credit pull always lowers your credit score, and this can make a huge difference if your score was already very close to the threshold. This can also generally impact the rate on your mortgage. Additionally, closing any accounts or credit cards can also have a negative impact on your credit score, so stay away from closing credit cards as well.

Big Purchases

This is where that scenario I mentioned earlier comes in. It's tempting to start shopping for furniture even right at the start of the process because you are so excited to move in and start a new chapter in your life. But any large purchases may cause unnecessary bumps in the road if you're not careful. It's important for you to keep this in mind regardless of whether you make the large purchase in cash or on your credit card. Using a credit card for a big purchase will increase your debt-to-income ratio and using cash will impact your savings. Remember to keep credit utilization under 30%, and, in general, wait until after your closing to start making big purchases.

Late or Missed Payments

Credit utilization and hard pulls definitely cause some negative points on your credit score, but the big culprit is payment history. Once you get your pre-approval, continue to monitor your due dates and make sure you are making consistent payments on your loans and credit cards. Late or missed payments - 30 or more days - can hurt your credit score.

Switching or Leaving a Job

Another factor the pre-approval offer relies on is your current employment. Any changes in your employment situation including a new job, becoming unemployed, or receiving a pay less than the original income amount you listed may cause issues for your final approval. Sometimes, this is out of your control, and for those instances, you want to make sure you are communicating changes to your lender and providing the necessary documentation that proves you have a steady source of income. Although in some cases, this type of change can thwart the process all together, if you get a new job in the same industry for a higher pay, a few pieces of documentation will put you back on track.

Large Deposits of Withdrawals

Your lender will always ask you for several months' worth of bank statements. These are required to prove that you will be able to pay for a house with money you have. So what happens if you make a large cash deposit or withdrawal? Well, without a paper trail proving where the money went or where it came from, you will raise some red flags for your lender. Stay away from deposits or withdrawals of this kind, and if you are getting money gifted to you towards the down payment, be sure to provide your lender with a gift letter.

If you're ever unsure about how a decision or action on your part can impact your chances of getting that final approval, ask your lender. Every loan officer works hard to get the client to the closing table; that's our goal, as much as it is yours. Your loan officer will always help you along the way.
